About The Blue Ridge Institute

The Blue Ridge Institute (BRI) has a long standing history of supporting, renewing, and fostering leadership within the community. By design, BRI is unlike most professional development conferences. Held in a beautiful and bucolic mountain setting – away from the hustle and bustle of the working world – we find time to focus on new perspectives and renew our inner reserves.

Thought-provoking professional development sessions each day lead into afternoons and evenings that offer a variety of optional activities from canoeing, hiking, and cookouts to softball and dancing. Many participants choose to spend their time more quietly: relaxing, reading, or discussing the day's presentation with new colleagues and long-time friends.

Additionally, BRI offers the opportunity to bring your family along and have your children or grandchildren attend their own age appropriate leadership camp while you are enjoying the presentations!

This type of learning environment is not for everyone. However, if you are a proven leader in your community and you are looking to network and connect with like-minded professionals in a casual setting, this is the conference experience for you!
